IMPORTANT WARNING: Due to the evolved and historic nature of their network, Herefordshire Council holds only limited data on their underground assets. Typically information on underground drainage, electrical or communication infrastructure is not held. Information on assets on the surface such as street lights and traffic signals is generally good, but assets such as drainage is partial. Subsequently third parties should not rely on the data shown to be exact or definitive. They should carry out their own onsite investigations to avoid damaging the Council's infrastructure. It should be expected that assets on the surface, such as street lights, traffic signals and drainages, have connecting infrastructure underground. The depth and positioning of this infrastructure may vary and may not be in accordance with current standards. This map shows all available information the Council holds for highway related underground assets, if assets are not shown in the area of your interest it will mean that we do not hold data for that area, but it does not mean that highway assets do not exist there.
